

Contribution ID: 62

Type: Contributed talk

Gut's complexity

Tuesday, 28 September 2021 17:30 (20 minutes)

Our guts host one of the largest interaction networks, only comparable in size and complexity with the nervous and the immune systems. The intricacy of its organization is just starting to be unveiled as novel DNA technology provides data. We will describe our most recent efforts in that direction.

Primary author: Dr CHIALVO, Dante R. (Center for Complex Systems and Brain Sciences, Instituto de Ciencias Físicas, Universidad Nacional de San Martín, (Argentina))

Presenter: Dr CHIALVO, Dante R. (Center for Complex Systems and Brain Sciences, Instituto de Ciencias Físicas, Universidad Nacional de San Martín, (Argentina))

Session Classification: S6